our observation. But though I happened not to have done that, there seems to be scarcely any room for doubt left, considering the fact that I fxad experienced the thing myself on my own head once and known how it was felt by me. So that when ! saw the very same thing happening in die case of my friend also, there remained no room for any further curiosity to verify the truth of the experience by making use of the touch sense as a final proof against all possible doubt. However, for arguments* sake one may still persist in thinking that the experience was something illusory and not real, as in the case of one under hypnosis, in which case, there might be such delusional perceptions as would astound the spectators by their startling decep-tions. My readers know perhaps that to a subject under hypnosis if it were suggested by die operator, "Well Mr. so and so, when I give you the signal you will at once wake up from your sleep and find everything around you just as you had seen before you went to sleep, with the single exception of Mr. such and

whom you won't be able to see amongst your spectators, it is indeed a very curious phenomenon to notice that the said subject when he
